

Dollar Day and Farm And Home Bureau Picnic

Semi-Annual Cooperative Dollar Day Sale of Uptown Merchants and Farm and Home Bureau and Chamber of Commerce Picnic Will Take Place Wednesday, August 14.

The semi-annual cooperative Dollar Day Sale of the Uptown business men of the city will be held Wednesday, August 14, when stores carrying all lines of merchandise will cooperate in offering to the public for that day values which will make dollars go farther. Great plans have been made for the mid-summer Dollar Day by the committee headed by Ben Fein and the event has been advertised throughout this county and adjoining counties by means of signs and newspaper advertising to that with favorable weather Kingston should have a record breaking attendance at the sale.

Represented at the sale will be business houses carrying all lines of merchandise. Not only will merchandise selling at a dollar be offered at special prices but higher priced merchandise will also be offered at substantial savings which will show to the people of Ulster county and surrounding territory that Kingston is a good place to shop and that Kingston merchants have the merchandise.

Dollar Day will commence early and will be continued all day with the stores remaining open until 9 o'clock in the evening. This should be an added attraction to out of town shoppers. During the evening the committee from the Uptown Business Men's Association has made arrangements for a band concert on Wall street between 7 and 9 o'clock. All the members of the Uptown Association are cooperating in the Dollar Day and in addition many merchants who are not members of the association will offer special bargains.

Farm and Home Bureau Picnic. Wednesday next will not only be Dollar Day Uptown but will be the day of the annual picnic of the Farm and Home Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce at Forster Park. Through no intention of the merchants to hold Dollar Day on the day of the picnic the same date was chosen by the picnic committee as had been chosen by the Business Men's Association. This fact should bring however a record crowd both to the Dollar Day sale and to the picnic for after a shopping excursion, out of town people will be able to attend the picnic and there meet and renew old friendships and visit with friends from the more distant parts of the county. Business and pleasure may be happily combined in one day.

As usual many of the merchants will probably offer limited special inducements to the public and naturally these special limited bargains will go to the early shopper. Practically all lines of merchandise will be offered at substantial reductions and with good weather Kingston should have a record breaking crowd both at the picnic and at the Dollar Day sale.

Zeppelin Starts Around the World Flight Tonight

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 7 (P).—A company of adventurous souls prepared to embark today upon a history-making voyage, circumnavigation of the earth in the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, ordered passengers to be at the hangar at 4 p. m. today although actual start on the first leg of the journey was not expected to be made before midnight.

Some of those who have booked passage from here will not make the flight around the world but will disembark at the first stop, Friedrichshafen, Germany, the Graf's home port.

Among those who expect to remain aboard the airship until she arrives here again a month hence, flying out of the west, are Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N.; Lieutenant J. C. Richardson, U. S. N.; William B. Leeds, son of the late tin plate king; Sir George Hubert Wilkins, explorer; Lady Grace Drummond Hay; Karl von Weigand, newspaper correspondent; and Joachim D. Rickard, writer.

The passenger list of 18 includes several Germans who arrived on the Graf on her flight from Germany.

Hans von Schiller, one of the pilots of the Graf, said he expected the airship would reach Friedrichshafen early Sunday. The ship will be grounded there for four or five days, then set out for Tokyo.

The jump to Tokyo and to Los Angeles each are expected to take four or five days with lay overs of the same duration at each stop. The trip, eastward across the United States is estimated to consume two or three days, which will bring the airship to her starting place here about September 3.

The jump from Friedrichshafen to Tokyo is regarded as the most hazardous, because mountains, clouds and rain may make navigation difficult and weather reports in that part of the world are meagre.

Favorable Weather for Start.

Washington, Aug. 7 (P).—Weather bureau forecasts today showed conditions generally were favorable for the start tonight of the Graf Zeppelin's flight around the world, although skies in the Lakehurst vicinity probably will be overcast.

Governor's Third Inspection Trip

Albany, Aug. 7 (P).—Governor Roosevelt today announced the details of his third state inspection trip, the itinerary of which includes a dozen communities in the southern tier counties. Starting from his Hyde Park home August 12, the Governor will visit, among other places, the following points:

August 12—Middletown State Hospital.

August 13—Binghamton State Hospital; Elmira State Reformatory; Watkins Glen.

August 14—Hornell; Olean; Allegany State Park; Salamanca.

August 15—Arcade; Letchworth State Park; the Blind School, Batavia; leaving by train for Albany that night.

The Governor also plans a two-day drive through the Cherry Valley section of the state, beginning August 22.

Governor Roosevelt, with Governor John Weeks of Vermont, will attend the dedication of the Lake Champlain bridge at Crown Point, August 18. On August 19 and 20 he will be at Syracuse, there to visit the State Fair and be present at the annual fair dinner.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7 (P).—A pyromaniac, said to have used improvised fireproofs made of candles, oil soaked rags and tin cans, was blamed by forest service officials here today for five fires in the Sierra National forests in Marinette county, Cal. Rangers declared the candles had been of varying lengths so the fires would break out simultaneously after the fireproofs had been placed apart. A hunt for suspicious characters was started.

Had Disclosed State's Plans

Chicago, Aug. 7 (P).—An assistant state's attorney, who until recently was head of the indictment department of the state's attorney's office, was seized for questioning early today when investigators were told that he had disclosed the state's plans to persons involved in the medical diploma mill investigation.

The attorney, Clarence E. Nelson, admitted, prosecutors said, that he had loaned an official secret document concerning the case to George Kohn, a friend of many years and former school classmate.

Kohn, questioned last night by Patrick Roche, chief investigator, and Assistant State's Attorney George Bellows, named Nelson as the man who had loaned him a statement made to investigators six weeks ago by Albert Carl Barrow, who since has been indicted. Kohn said he had loaned the statement to Barrow into returning money to several physicians of friends of Barrow.

Discovery of the leak in the state's plans allowed a day of important developments. Officials earlier had said Kohn's report was a leak in the state's plans.

Trade Board Big Factor in Chicago's Progress

The jobs of 30,000 men and women are directly dependent on the existence of the Chicago Board of Trade; 100,000 are employed indirectly because of the "world's largest" commodity exchange. These figures indicate the important part the board has taken in building Chicago into the fifth city of the world and the financial and marketing center of the Middle West.

Early in 1843 a small group of influential leaders, engaged in pulling Chicago out of the mud that was old Fort Dearborn, organized the board of trade. Memberships in those days could be bought for a comparatively few dollars. Today the total value of memberships, at a conservative estimate, is $30,000,000.

In the old days, tolling wagonloads of wheat and corn arrived from across the prairies in Chicago and were promptly sold at the exchange. Long before the end of the board's eighty-first year, Chicago was the railroad center of the world and farm products moved to market in modern style. It is estimated that one-seventh of all the revenue of midwestern railroads now is derived from the transport of farm crops to market. A great part of their shipments go to Chicago for sale on the exchange.

Engina's Wild Journey

There have been few more spectacular railway runs than that made by a great locomotive stolen two years ago by thieves from the Volk-rust (Transvaal) engine sheds and driven by them fifty miles to Standerton. There they reversed it, opened the throttle, and jumped clear. The deserted engine thundered back at forty miles an hour. Right back to the sheds it stuck to the track. Then it smashed into some wagons and was wrecked.

Light Without Heat

Neon (Greek, "new") light does not radiate heat. It is cold light. Although a "cold light" producing phenomenon peculiar to certain groups of animals, such as the fireflies, glowworms, tree frogs and the so-called luminous birds which give forth light as a by-product of their activity, has long been known to scientists. Prior to the discovery of neon, artificial light without heat was scarcely heard of.

First Real Relief Came When She Started Using The Herbal Medicine

Stomach And Kidney Ailments Were Helped For First Time Declares Mrs. W. H. Van Leuven.

"Nu-Erb has given me the first relief that I have had from distressing stomach and kidney troubles and for that reason I enthusiastically recommend it to others," said Mrs. Walter H. Van Leuven, Sleightsburg, N. Y. (Near Kingston).

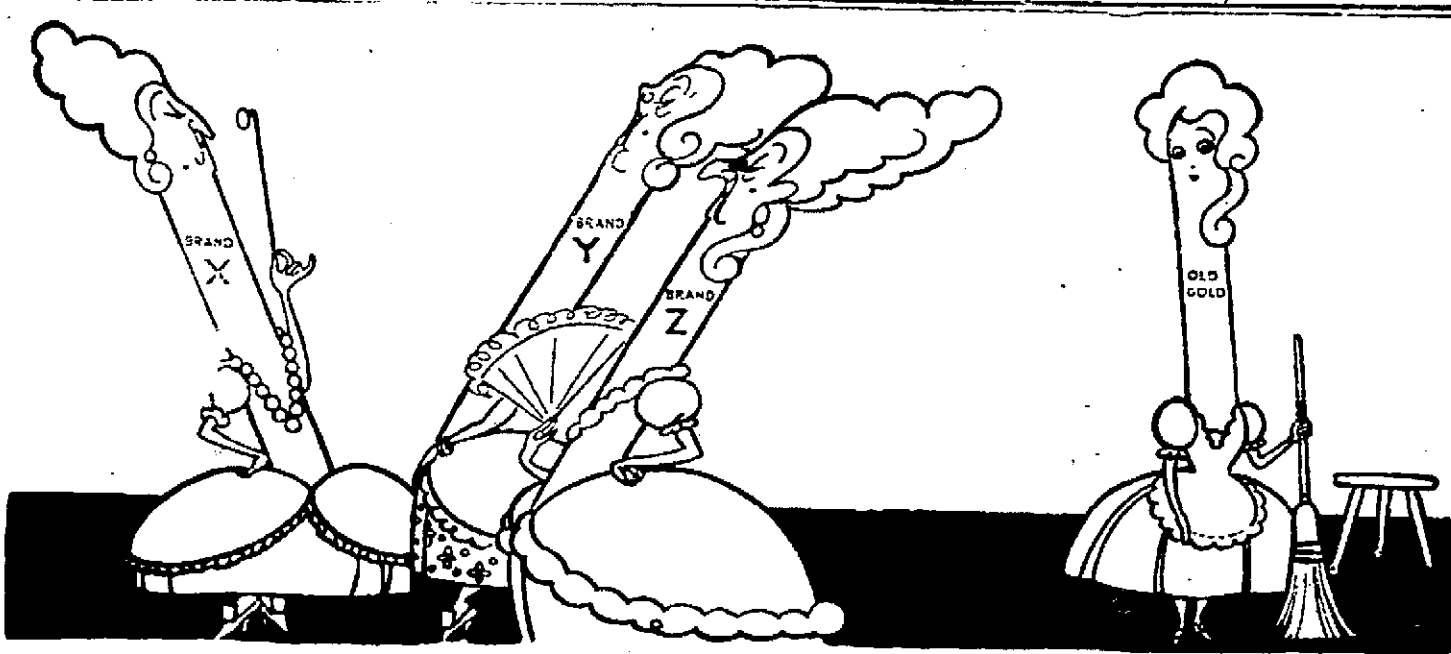

"My food soured and formed a distressing gas in my stomach soon after each meal and I'd get such severe attacks of heartburn that it was difficult for me to breathe and from this I could seem to get no relief. My kidneys were in a weakened condition, causing a dull, aching pain across my back and I was seldom free from splitting headaches. I was also a chronic victim to constipation.

"Since taking the Nu-Erb, the indigestion and gas in my stomach has entirely disappeared. I am no longer troubled with heartburn, bloating or any other distress in that way. It has also strengthened my kidneys, so that the pains have left my back. It has put an end to the headaches and my bowels are acting regularly every day. I feel so much better in every way that I just feel like telling everybody I meet about this wonderful medicine."

For a disordered stomach, de-ranged kidneys, sluggish liver, irregular bowels, nervousness, rheumatism or neuritis there seems to be nothing better than Nu-Erb. Its merits do not lie in harmful drugs that merely stimulate the organs to a temporary feeling of well being, but its great virtues come from the good old herbs, barks and roots from which it is made and that is principally the reason why it is a desirable medicine for anyone to use.

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Cinderella and the Three proud cigarette brands

A Modern Fable

Once upon a time a Mighty Prince set forth to find a perfect cigarette. Being very wise, he netted down his search to the four National favorites... that quartette of popular sister brands known as the "20 for 15¢" family.

The three elder cigarette brands rushed forward to meet the Prince with all the proud pomp in the world... each vying with the other in urging her claims upon him.

"Smoke me!" said the eldest, "I am the class of the field."

"Smoke me!" said the second, "for I am beyond compare."

"Smoke me!" said the third, "all the world acknowledges me to be the best."

Then, from the background, the youngest brand... the Cinderella of the family... quietly spoke up. "If you please, Sir," she suggested, "why not smoke all four of us... and compare us fairly and impartially, letting your taste decide which one of us you like best?"

"Why, that's a common sense idea!" exclaimed His Highness. Whereupon he covered the names of all four brands with paper masks; lit them and smoked them reflectively, with all brand prejudices removed.

One cigarette seemed to capture his fancy, far and beyond the others. "I don't know which cigarette this is," he declared, "but, unquestionably, it is the cigarette for me."

Whereupon he removed the mask and found it to be... Well, Cinderella is the "story-book" name but in America today that winning brand is known as OLD GOLD.

MORAL: It is easy to make big claims, but you can't smoke claims. The only sound way to discover the cigarette you like best is to let your taste decide.

"This year I'm keeping our old car, as a second car, instead of trading it in."

"MY family is large enough to need two cars. This year I'm going to keep my old car instead of trading it in on the new one. Of course trading it in would make a difference in the cost of the new one. But that's outweighed many times by the convenience a second car will mean to us—and our old car is good for years more.

"I am enlarging my garage to make room for two cars. But that's a good investment in itself because it will increase the value of my property and make it easier to sell."

A used car is unused transportation

General Motors suggests that you keep your old car when you buy a new one. More and more families are doing it each year. That is a reason why the number of two-car families has jumped from 300,000 to over 3,000,000 in ten years. Used cars have years of unused transportation in them; years of satisfactory performance. And the GMAC low-cost plan of purchase makes it easy to pay comfortably for the new car while you enjoy its use.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Aug. 7.—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.) The apple market was strong, particularly on fancy fruit, and prices advanced with the demand active. Hudson valley Dutchess apples No. 1 Grade, 2 1/2 inch pack, graded at $2.25 @ $2.50 per bushel basket. The 2 1/2 inch offer was brought $1.75 @ $2.25 and 2 1/2 inch at $1.75. The unclassified stock realized $1 @ $1.50. Western New York cucumbers and pickles were scarce. Sales on the cucumbers were reported at $4 per bushel basket, while pickles commanded $4.50. Receipts of green peas from upstate were rather light. Values were a little firmer and the market held steady to firm. Jobbing business on the best consignments in bushel baskets was transacted at $2 @ $2.50. Supplies of Hudson valley Clapp's choice pears are steadily increasing. The demand was rather slow and the market closed dull. Most of the sales of the best fruit were consummated at a bushel basket.

Supplies of Boston lettuce from this state were fairly liberal. Trading was light and prices averaged lower. Crates of 24 heads sold out at 40 to 75 cents. In a few instances some strictly fancy heads as high as $1, while some very poor worked out at 25 cents. The demand for cauliflower was active and prices declined. Catskill mountain shipments of the fancy pack jobbed out mainly at $4 @ $5, occasionally as high as $5.50. Washington cauliflower sold cheaply at $4 @ $4.25.

Prices were a trifle higher on black sour cherries, red currants, and raspberries, and mushrooms, but weaker on onions, stringbeans and tomatoes.

Children's Wear of Youthful Air

Fashion's Happy Medium Between Plain Tailored and Fancy Type.

An air of great refinement distinguishes this season's fashions for children, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. They are gentler and softer and are a happy medium between the severely plain "tailored" and the "fussy" frocks loaded with trimming, the whole tendency being to get away from masses of cheap lace. The extremes, however picturesque, to which styles for children, especially for little girls have been carried, are out of date. Leading designers of clothes for young people find that mothers want their small daughters to dress like girls and their small sons like boys—an idea emphasized in the season's brother and sister suits.

Already in the offing is seen the longer skirt, descending along with that for grown-ups. That the change in this popular mode of short skirts, prophesied by Paris, from which we originally received it, will come all at once is unlikely, but the best shops are sponsoring it.

A sense of humor is necessary to associate dress ensembles with small children, but they are actually shown for almost the first short clothes, as well as for girls of every age. A charming little ensemble, designed in a Paris establishment for a youngster of one year, consists of a dress of white dimity embroidered at the neck with tiny rosebuds and forget-me-nots and a slender pattern in french knots about the bottom and the armholes—there being no sleeves. This is worn over a slip of pale rose tub silk and the coat is made of rose-colored linen.

Yellow is prominent. Designers have created delightful outfits for midsummer in many styles, colors and materials. Some of the newest and loveliest are in yellow, which has become a fashionable color for little girls since the English Princess Elizabeth has been wearing it.

Different materials are cleverly combined and much yellow and white are used together. In one charming model the dress is made of white swiss dotted with yellow and is finished at the neck and armholes with smocking in yellow floss. The coat is of heavy yellow crepe. In an ensemble designed for a girl of six the dress, of white shantung, is accompanied by a coat of yellow linen. Another white shantung frock, for a larger girl, is smocked at the neck, the sleeves and waistline in rose pink, and has a coat of rose pink linen. In this dress and many others of sheer and soft material, smocking or other needlework is used to mark the normal waistline. This is an innovation when used with the slightly longer skirts, but it has by no means driven out the long waist or the belted models.

The dressy summer clothes from Paris are the quintessence of refinement. They include many of sheer organdies finished with the finest embroideries; hand-blocked linens and dainty muslins in various weaves and beautiful patterns. The French are using fewer hems than we, and almost all of their frocks of thin goods for little girls are finished around the bottom and the edges of neck and arms with pointed scalloped done with white cotton. One-piece dresses in light blue, pink, yellow and orchid are delightful with this embroidered finish, especially when they have no other trimmings, or perhaps only a bow at the neck—occasionally on one shoulder. Most of the French frocks seen here are in plain colors, although some are shown with coats of printed crepe, taffeta and linen.

In dresses made here handkerchief linen is a favorite. Some charming models in plain collars are finished at the neck and arms with a bit of needlework or smocking and a touch of embroidery around the bottom. One engaging example is a diminutive frock of pale rose handkerchief linen, smocked with blue at the neck, back and front, the goods hanging in plaits. The sides are finished with a shallow scallop and tiny embroidered garlands done in Dresden colors. This dainty costume for girls from two to six fits close around the neck and buttons on the shoulder in the new style.

Model of Baby Blue Voile.

Another model which has a wider limit of years is made of baby blue voile, buttons straight down the front, with the same panel of plaiting back and front, and has a wide collar of white organdie in two layers, each piped along the edge with the voile; and a little bow with long ends is fastened in front. The original of this frock is sleeveless, but the designer suggests that "bishop" sleeves could be added.

Rather more sophisticated is a frock in which a compromise is effected between the tailored and soft type. This is made of white silk pique with a long-waisted blouse attached to the skirt with a shallow piece over each hip and with a ribbon belt tied with a bow in front marking the waistline. The skirt is laid in a wide box pleat in front and there is a deep cape collar, which, together with the hip panels, is edged with a fold of pale blue taffeta.

A new style of romper has short, wide trousers that give more freedom and are cooler than the usual style closed at the knee, and when these rompers are in one-piece design they button on each shoulder. The one-piece frocks this season are made in both plain and figured stuffs, with no trimming, but are finished with white collars and cuffs. The gingham is much in vogue for this type of dress.

For playtime children are wearing as few clothes as possible. They are not admonished any longer not to get their frocks soiled. On the contrary, they are dressed in the sort of togs that are built for soiling, just so the wearer has plenty of exercise and play in the open. The growing interest in out-of-door life and sports for young people has inspired many new designs for play clothes of different kinds.

Backless, Sleeveless, Perforated.

The new models are backless, sleeveless, even perforated, to take in as much of the air and sun as possible. The original sun-tan back is credited to the little girls and boys who rebelled against bodices and belts and things and adored going barefoot, and now the garment or two in which they dig in the sand, make mud pies and revel in other joys is a mere gesture. It may be two-piece, a low-neck, sleeveless waist with trousers or skirt attached, but it is cool, but durable, and, above all, washable.

Linen, cotton broadcloth, gingham and old-fashioned percale, by whatever name, are among the most satisfactory materials. The colors are pretty, sometimes gay, and both plain fabrics and prints, with tiny little floral and conventional figures, are good, especially for children from two to three or six. Jersey in a light, close weave is much liked by both girls and boys, and is very popular, particularly for tuck-in shirts and sweaters—sleeveless, of course—which girls are wearing with separate skirts of linen, cotton, shantung or pique, french lisle skirts with cotton or linen shorts attached are stylish, as are little lisle sweaters in bright stripes, which are worn with socks to match.

LUCK AND FLUCK

Luck and Fluck are a couple we all of us meet.

Very early in life, and it's best.

To quickly decide, in a matter discreet.

Which one will prove true to the test.

Now, Luck loves to wait while the days roll by.

For something which may come along.

But Fluck has to cut and to caper to try.

For he's willing and earnest and strong.

While Luck lies abed and dreams of the day.

When he'll wake up and find he's an heir.

Old Fluck's on the job and is earning his pay.

In a way that is honest and fair.

Now, Luck likely quits in the heat of the strife.

At the moment you need him the most.

But Fluck always sticks with a fellow for life.

And never goes dead on his post.

Ah, Luck is a jolly good fellow—weather.

While Fluck is a real pal indeed.

Luck's always around when there's money to spend.

But Fluck is a helper in need.

And the fellow who gains only failure and shame.

Is the chap who depends upon Luck.

But the winner in life's grand and glorious game.

Sticks all of his chances on Fluck.

They are long, thin and industrious.

Third Art Show
At Woodstock

(By F. Gardner Clogh.)

The third general exhibition of Paintings, Sculpture and Crafts put on by the Woodstock Art Association has already drawn a great many visitors to the gallery in the center of Woodstock village. This show opened Saturday, and already there has been much lively discussion about the various spectacular pieces on display. Those who wish to enter the big show tent (or art gallery) still have until August 31st to do so. The gallery is open afternoons every day of the week, and Saturday mornings in addition.

If the previous showing of smaller, and more quiet pieces, failed to please a public intent on seeing something typically Woodstocky, the present show, will please immensely. The present show has a wide variety of paintings; there are portraits of people whom you should recognize, portraits of people you had no idea were alive, and there are a few dumpy landscapes of scenes and lands that you never knew existed, unless you have a vivid imagination, as you should have if you're a frequent visitor to the Woodstock Art Gallery.

There must be something in this gallery this week; the writer sat a few minutes on the steps Monday afternoon to watch the visitors. A dumpy colored waiter from a nearby restaurant went in and came out saying: "There's some fine work there!" The tailor of the village left his shop and spent some time gazing at first one, then another, canvas. Several church ladies went the rounds, whispering together in front of a "nude" portrait. And of course artists and critics came and went in steady procession.

Inside the doors the visitors are forgotten. This show is ostensibly one of amazing portraits. Many Woodstockers have been painted by Woodstock artists, who love to portray their own kith. Robert Chandler has done a sketchy head of Harvey White, and John Carroll has painted the same Robert Chandler in a modernistic manner which makes him look like a mechanical man held in place by a horizontal paint brush at the bottom of the canvas. Norbert Heerman has brought from Europe a pompous and bulbous gentleman whom he calls a "Capri Captain." Winsome Gretchen Smith is the subject of a portrait by her father, Judson Smith, who has done a fine piece of work with his structural furniture basing the figure atop. Eugene Speicher, famed portrait painter, has chosen pretty Miss Naomi Nemer for his "Sandra," an excellent piece of work. More sentimental is "Young Boy," by Arnold Blanche. Doubtless a local lass is the subject of Margaret Chaplin's portrait of "Susan," a young girl, painted with deft technique pleasingly apparent in the face, neck and leg textures. Jo Cantina has painted a young boy sitting on steps, dressed in uniform, clutching a rifle for the ordeal.

Other local subjects, which should interest Kingstonians, are "West Shore Depot," by A. Wayne Wilhelm. Here the railroad station, the winding tracks, and the distant mountains are clearly made too small and compressed, but he has caught the feeling a New Yorker might have when stepping off the train for his change to an automobile for the famous resort of Woodstock. Florence Cramer has painted "Rondout," a scene showing the famous ferry slip with the creek where so many of us have waited for a boat. "Brickyard," by A. Wayne Wilhelm is another Hudson river view in which the artist has caught the feeling of a true landscape of dimensions. "Between Trains" by Myron Sokole is another painting with the West Shore station or so we would guess it to be.

Other spectacular paintings are "Still Life," by F. London, with a copy of the Herald-Tribune sucking into our face when he might as well have shown a copy of the Kingston Freeman or the Woodstock Bulletin instead.

Henry Mattson has one of his sentimental flower studies, painted with his fidelity to subjective moods, and a nice piece of work he has made of it, too. "Peonies," by Paul Roland, is heralded by many as one of the finest flower pictures in the gallery; there is a beautiful tone, something romantic blended in his lights and super lights of color.

For those who prefer intellectual work this painting labelled "59th St. East" by Henry Billings racks high. It has been said to be a forecast of the work to come from this young painter, who works with thought behind his compositions. Tall chimneys, distant buildings, steel structures, all vie with one another to make a pattern not uncommon today in our large cities. Another work that lacks what modernists term "pure sentiment" is the landscape by Arnold Wilts. "The Rampart," in which cold, gray colors are used to draw buildings mathematical in form; Wilts has something undeniably whimsical in his precise drawings.

And so could one report the various pictures in this mid-season art show at Woodstock. If the mere visitor is inclined to scorn what he does not understand, let the writer mention that already three metropolitan newspapers have sent reviewers to this show at Woodstock to report what is there. To me it seems a fair omen that these art exhibits are drawing more and more visitors into the gallery each day. When painters and waiters and yokels and plows folk join hands with artists and critics to visit the Woodstock art show, there must be something of interest to be seen.

CHRYSLER

Rumors about Chrysler's plans are flying thick and fast. The man in the street is saying, "Chrysler has something up its sleeve" :: Widespread gossip insists that Chrysler will soon make an announcement fully as sensational as its dramatic debut of five years ago. Everywhere you hear that Chrysler is going to write another thrilling page of automotive history. The public, which has long expected the unexpected from Chrysler, is waiting in anticipation :: Chrysler greatly appreciates the splendid compliment expressed in this nation-wide belief that something important impends—that whatever Chrysler does is of vital interest and tangible value to the motoring public. It is particularly gratifying right now, in the face of the announcements recently made or promised by other manufacturers, to have American motorists thus reiterate their implicit confidence in Chrysler's ability to stay ahead—and go even further ahead :: The highest possible tribute to Chrysler prestige is this fact that, after all, everybody is watching Chrysler.

Flashes of Life sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York—There's considerable time along Park avenue since some anonymous article decried this season's debs shall be divided into groups A, B and C, according to general social fitness. As of grade A is described as thoroughly nice, not a prude but not shallow, dances well, has athletic activities but these not essential, as well and finally to suit the season; grade B has A's general appeal but is prone to be found in company of "stupid" which—well, reflect slightly, and C just won't do.

Muscle, N. Y.—Irate gaiters, despairing of keeping low-flying planes off their necks, seized and "impounded" one machine which landed near the old Westbury Club. The aviator was forced to walk back to Roosevelt Field, a tramp of several miles.

New York—An aching molar is no respecter of person or fame. Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zep, called at the city hall but Jimmy Mayor Walker because Jimmy had hastened to the dentist for emergency relief. The Herr Doctor telephoned the dental salon, however, and his honor welcomed the intermission. "Talk some more," he invited the caller. "I'm all about your city and your plans and the home folks and everything. The longer I'll get away from that thing-and-so drill."

Duane—Another of those touchy diplo-social, pre-ponderant political Italian warships arriving here offered to give the executive salute of 21 guns to President Sabini. The League of Nations commissioner protested and while he and the Italian and Polish representatives argued, the squadron sailed away.

College Point, N. Y.—Honesty is its own—your know the old copy-book maxim. Philip Santofier, tailor, found a $1,400 bill in the pocket of a suit left for cleaning. He made a special trip to return it. "You certainly are an honest tailor," said the owner, shaking hands.

Watch Hill, R. I.—The local improvement society has petitioned the town of Westerly to provide police service at nearby beaches to prevent the "weekly" embarrassments resulting from the law of automobiles as bath houses for disrobing. The amount of privacy afforded, the society holds, is often little more than the point of view.

New York—Another big business idea has been adopted by labor. The garment workers' union announced a $250,000 bond issue to finance a walkout in December. They will bear five per cent and be repayable $50,000 a year for five years.

Lofty Mountains Passing
The Ozark mountains or Ozark plateau, being with the oldest mountain regions of the world, and denudation is slowly and surely removing the last remains of once lofty mountains. A small area of pre-Cambrian rocks is exposed in the St. Francois mountains. The remainder of the plateau consists of Cambrian and Ordovician age.

Shakespeare's Humor
Shakespeare frequently mentioned Madeira wines in his plays and he perpetuated an ancient legend in making that grim humorist, King Richard III, get rid of his ambitious elder brother, the duke of Clarence, by having him stood on his head in a butt of his favorite Madeira in the Tower of London, till he was drowned.

Population of Continents
Asia leads the continents with an estimated population of 850,000,000; Europe is second with 450,000,000; then comes Africa with 145,000,000; North America with 135,000,000; South America with 65,000,000 and Australia with 10,000,000. The polar regions contribute 50,000,000 and 167,000,000 is added as miscellaneous.

Male Always Important
In spite of all the modern mechanical equipment of armies, the male still remains indispensable to military efficiency. Centuries before Hannibal and his elephants marched on Rome the male was a military factor of first importance.

Illiteracy of Males in Japan Decreasing

Washington—Thanks to the progress of home study methods of education, Japan is making marked headway in decreasing the illiteracy rate of its male population living in remote regions of the empire, the national home study council, Washington, D. C., asserts.

This fact was confirmed recently in an announcement given by the Japanese ministry of war, which revealed that only 50,000 of the young men from rural districts, who were called to the colors this year, are unable to read or write. In 1926 and 1927 the number of illiterates included in the recruiting classes was 30,000 and 54,000 respectively, the council states, adding:

"While education is compulsory in Japan, there are many of the natives who, for economic reasons or official carelessness, evade the law and do not attend school long enough to master the rudiments of character writing. Most of this evasion is found in the rural regions among folk far removed from the government schools. This situation is being relieved by the extension of home study programs for these people."

Guards Watch Barber as He Shaves King Zogu

Tirana, Albania.—King's barber has soft job.

A handsome young man is King Zogu's barber, with thick, dark hair, a fashionable tiny mustache and the added "charm of married brows." He is said to have been not only "guaranteed" as a real fascist by Mussolini, but also personally introduced to King Zogu by him.

Whether or not this is true, Giuseppe Falgari is King Zogu's best-paid servant. He receives, in addition to board and lodging, a "retaining fee" of $175 a month, as well as a daily fee of $4 when he shaves the king. Perhaps this compensates for any loss of dignity Giuseppe may feel when the two armed guards stand by during the shaving. The Albanian king takes no risks and these knights protector of the lather, as one might say, are always on hand for the daily operation.

More than 450,000 children in New York state have received toxoid immunization against diphtheria since January 1, 1926, according to the State Charities Aid Association.

YOU will find on Plymouth the largest tires of any car in the low-priced field. Real over-size tires—4.75—more than ample for this full-size car.

That is why the improved Plymouth, with so much else to talk about, deserves an entire advertisement to over-size tires.

Many motorists lose sight of the fact that tires can make a big difference in riding ease—and forget how much tire size means to safety.

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyancy and comfort. They, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance and, most important of all, give the car greater traction which means sure-footed safety.

From tires to roof, from radiator to tank, Chrysler engineers have endowed the improved Plymouth with qualities and abilities never before available in a car of low price.

Coke Company Power Merger

Valley Coke and Products Corporation sold to the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation.

The Hudson Valley Coke and Products Corporation of Troy became a part of a vast merger Tuesday with announcement at Albany of its sale to the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, or a subsidiary. While figures were mentioned in the announcement by Clarence W. Cook, secretary and treasurer, the assets of the company are placed at more than $500,000.

The sale, although approved by directors, is subject to approval by stockholders at a special meeting scheduled for September 10. Mr. Cook announced that holders of considerable amounts of both preferred and common stock have already signed their approval of the deal.

Distinctly a coke and gas manufacturing plant, the Hudson Valley Coke and Products Corporation is to be the first non-electric power plant absorbed by the Niagara Hudson Corporation.

The corporation furnishes gas in Watervliet, Albany, Schenectady, Ballston, Saratoga, Johnstown and other points. Recently gas mains have been extended many miles. The output at the plant has been maintained on a generally strong basis, the blast furnace for manufacture of pig iron has not been in operation two years, since the plant was run out by an explosion.

A distribution yard for coke is maintained by the company on Cedar street in this city.

Laws of New England

March on Manufacturers

The children of the early days in New England did not learn the letters of the alphabet in such simple fashion as "A stands for Apple, and B stands for Ball." But letters sometimes were used to mark the transgression.

Lack of chastity was indicated in the scarlet A which Roger Pryor wore. The drunkard could be and was distinguished, and must "wear about his neck and as an to hang above his outer garment a D made of red cloth and set upon white, and to continue it a year and not to leave it off when he comes among company."

The letter B did not escape being a mark of ignominy. "Any person who commits burglary by breaking up any dwelling house, or shall rob any person in the field or highway, such a person as offending shall for the first offence be branded on the forehead with the letter B; a second time a second B, and for a third time be put to death. If the offence is committed on the Lord's Day, for the first offence he shall have one ear cut off; the second ear for the second offence, and be put to death for the third offence."

Smoking Among Women

Alarmed Man in 1663

In 1663 the growing practice of smoking and dipping snuff by refined women in both North and South, writes Arthur Train in the Saturday Evening Post, were stigmatized by Schuyler Brightley in the April number of "The Galaxy" as shockingly on the increase.

In the South particularly, owing to the influence of their negro mammy, "young and tenderly nurtured girls, belonging to the richest and proudest families in the neighborhood, smoked to an extent that would be regarded as dangerously excessive even among men, and not cigarettes or cigars, but yet elegant little chibouks or nargiles, fashioned to suit their delicate lips, but short, black duduans from the North, and pipes of native invention made of a reed stuck into a bowl of red earth or a cornucopia."

War Prisoners Made Slaves

All armies sent out from Rome were accompanied by speculators in the slave trade, who bought the captives as they were put up to auction after a battle and then undertook the transport to Rome of all who were suited for employment in Italy or were not brought up in the province which was the seat of war. Fowler says: "After the campaign of Pydna and the overthrow of the Macedonian kingdom, Aemilius Paulus, one of the most humane of the Romans, sold into slavery, under orders from the senate, 100,000 free inhabitants of communities in Epirus which had sided with Perseus in the war. . . . Caesar, like Aemilius Paulus, one of the most humane of Romans, tells us himself that on a single occasion, the capture of the Adriatic, he sold 50,000 prisoners on the spot."

"Faint Heart Nerves"

They were talking of a fellow club member.

"When I come to think about it," said one man, "I don't think I've seen old Harry for nearly a week."

"I'll bet you haven't," agreed another man, entering at the moment.

"He's been dead three days."

"Dead? How did that happen?"

"Well, you know his wife had a little habit of making him carry everything she bought. Last week she bought a grand piano."

"But he didn't have to carry that, surely?"

"No; he took one look at it, though, and passed away without so much as a sound."

Unusual Mirage

To the tired and thirsty traveler in the desert there sometimes appears the tantalizing vision of an oasis, green with trees and sweet with running water. The camels wearily pad toward the promised spot, and, alas, the mirage slowly fades, leaving only the hot, cruel, desert sand. Dwellers on the shores of Lake Constance were enchanted the other day by a clear and vivid picture of that part of the town of Immensee with the Herzberg palace appearing in the heavens and remaining visible for some time. This is the first time a mirage has ever been recorded on Lake Constance.

Dinos Long Employed

The dinosaurs which protect the Netherlands and the German coasts of the North sea go back to the old Roman times. Apparently even before the Romans appeared the Batavians at the mouth of the Rhine protected themselves by dikes. During, after the conquest of Holland, in R. C. built an elaborate system of artificial canals and dikes. Finally the Elder gives an interesting description of the artificial hills which were erected as places of refuge during the floods.

Yes, Please

The little boy had been sent to the drug store to get some Band-Aid and a special kind of chin cream.

"Do you want the (the things in separate parcels?" asked the druggist, as soon as he had attended to the boy's demands.

"Yes, please," answered the little fellow. "I think it would be as well. The cream is for mother; she wants to use the Band-Aid. The Band-Aid is for father. Mother broke the Band-Aid over his head."

Liberty Statue Highest

Play and Statue place the height of the Columns of Rhodes at 70 cubits, or 105 feet. Later writers estimated it at nearly 60 cubits. The Statue of Liberty is 111 feet high, placed on a pedestal of 135 feet.

ON REARING CHILDREN from CRIB TO COLLEGE

One of the first responsibilities of God to a child's mind seems to be that God is a means of getting one's own way, a source of favor, of answers to special requests for special privileges. This is the inevitable result of teaching poor prayers to children. Many prayers are merely a series of petitions. Small wonder, then, should a misfortune overtake daddy, that the child will say, "What's the use of praying? God didn't bless daddy." These follow from these prayers a bargaining spirit. I know of one child who prayed, "If you will make my dog Teddy well, I will keep on saying my prayers." Teddy died.

I must begin by attempting to explain to my child what God is not. I must make it plain in simple words that God is not a means of getting what you want. I will try to explain that prayer should not be a series of requests but an act of worship. I will have to give my child this feeling by what I do as well as by what I say.

Martha May Reynolds of State Teachers' college, Buffalo, N. Y., has recently had an opportunity to observe the negativistic behavior of some 250 children of pre-school age. The results of this study point out several important facts and suggest a few probable causes for children's refusal to co-operate.

Two important facts which the study demonstrated were: (1) that negativism is the usual, rather than the unusual thing in the early ages of childhood, and (2) that when dealt with properly it disappears as the child approaches school age. For these reasons, we should study it sympathetically and with a sense of humor and not shrink with horror from the so-called defiance of parental authority which we formerly read into it. It is part of the psychology of the pre-school child. When the pre-school child will have become a school child, then he will largely have outgrown it and will have taken on some other characteristics, which at the time will probably appear equally annoying or serious.

The baby's second summer has lost its terrors. These days it is merely another slice of baby's life—a most exacting one. It is true, but not the period it used to be. A recent bulletin of the New York department of health indicates the present situation. It heralds the passing of cholera infantum, the intestinal disease once so prevalent in summer, and so devastating, particularly to the second-year infant. From an annual toll 20 years ago of 4,000 children under five years of age, the record of last year had dropped to only 240.

Before using cooking utensils, wash them thoroughly in soapsuds to remove the light coat of dressing that is put on in the factory. Then any articles that are subject to rust should be rubbed with a cloth saturated with oil or unsalted fat.

The ability of children to enjoy clothes, far from being something to frown down, is distinctly an asset in later life. A very great psychoanalyst says that the genuinely happy person is the one absorbed in the world about him, who takes a constant joy in objects which he can make or gather and arrange, which are his belongings, which express him, and bring him satisfaction. It doesn't matter as we grow older whether our clothes please our neighbors. The important thing is that they please us, and give us the sense of well-being, of fitness, of charm, which are contributions to our happiness.

Charming Ensemble for Street Wear This Fall

The illustration shows a lovely creation from the French capital for street wear this autumn—coat of wool on miniature with stand-up collar and a two-piece crepe de chine dress with a pleated skirt. Both the coat and dress are pale green.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The Printed Frock is Typical of the Summer Mood.

New York—The printed frock seems to have broken down all traditions concerning the dislike of one class to dress like the other. The colorful lady and lady O'Grady are alike in more ways than one, they are both enthusiasts over printed frocks. How long will this curious state of affairs continue, one wonders? Early fall announcements and early fall collections bespeak further development of the printed fabric.

This summer's crop of flowered chiffons has been for the most part delightful. Original conceptions in color and design have lifted the flowered chiffon from the stigma of banality. Prints continue to be presented in fresh versions and while there is a far cry from prints to embroideries, they have in common a determination to oust the plain surfaced fabrics from fashionable circles.

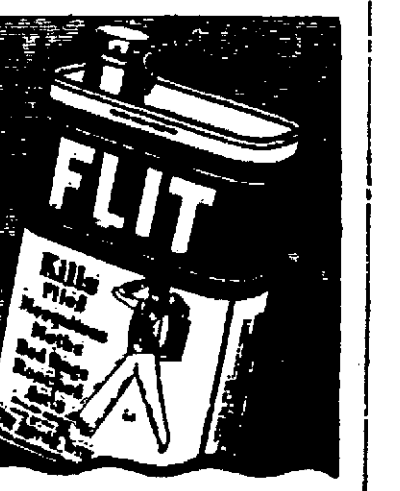

A Flowered Chiffon, from Suzanne Talbot, Has Tiny Beige and Salmon Pink Flowers on a Light Green Ground. The Supple Bodice, With Scarf Attached at the Waist, and the Double Fanned Skirt, Dipping Slightly in the Back, Are Graceful Movements Typical of This Summer's Dresses. With This Dress Is Worn a Hat of Beige Organdie.

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

Just as when in doubt so many women take refuge in black for formal winter affairs, so in summer all doubts are allayed by the selection of a flutery, printed chiffon frock for any occasion from noon to midnight.

A word about the lady of the illustration for she is wearing a pleated organdie hat with her charming flowered chiffon frock. After approving a felt hat with such a frock, as has been fashion's judgment for several seasons, it is now frowned down, straw or fabric substituting for felt.

6475. Printed dimity, printed chiffon or taffeta are suggested for this pretty frock. The fronts are finished in scallops, and outlined a panel from neck to hem. The sleeve is comfortably short and finished with a scalloped cuff, to which the rolled collar is a charming accompaniment. The waist portions blouse slightly above the flare skirt portions. A sash of wide ribbon completes this pleasing effect.

The pattern for this style is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress for an 8 year size will require 2 yards 39 inches wide. To make collar, panel, sash and cuffs of contrasting material as pictured in the large view, will require 1/2 yard of 39 inch material, cut crosswise.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

MRS. ROBERT WARE, winner of national good housekeeping prize

does all her own work yet has hands as lovely as those of a woman with several maids

KEEPS house so exquisitely that she won a national good housekeeping prize... does all her own work... has the hands of a girl of eighteen...

"Every woman can do it," Mrs. Robert Ware says. "It's so easy—with Lux."

Mrs. Ware's home in Chicago is charming—so shining—you know what a wonderful homemaker she is the moment you open her front door.

And her lovely young hands—hardly seems possible she does her own work! She tells the secret...

"For every soap and water task my hands have to do I use Lux..."

"Lux saves me work. And gives my hands real beauty care!"

"Like many women, I used to use Lux just for my fine things, then ruin my hands with ordinary household soaps."

"Wasn't that foolish? Now I use Lux whenever my hands touch soap and water..."

"There's Lux in my kitchen, Lux in my bathroom; I use it for dishes, baby things, all my colored things, curtains, my nice linens—for my ice box, painted woodwork, kitchen sink, linoleums, lamp shades, upholstery, piano keys—even for the rugs."

"My hands look beautifully cared for and I actually save, I find, for safe, pure Lux goes so much further than ordinary soaps and keeps everything like new so much longer."

Bathroom shining—porcelain smooth and white—with Lux! Mrs. Ware adds—"I always have Lux handy in the bathroom for washing fine things, mirrors, combs and brushes."

Likes washing dishes—yes, she does! "With Lux," Mrs. Ware says—"I don't mind doing dishes a bit—my hands actually look nicer after I'm through. It's beauty care right in your dishpan! Economical, too—you need only a little hot water, and a speckful of Lux, and there's no cake of soap waiting away. A big package of Lux does my dishes for 6 weeks."

Mother's hands are in soap and water so many times a day... "I keep my hands soft and smooth by always using Lux,"—observes Mrs. Ware says—"Of course for my home dress and for everything the children wear... white and colored dresses, sweaters, socks, rompers, underthings, diapers, washings—ever toys!"

"Proud of my linen closet and of my blankets," Mrs. Ware says—"Thanks to Lux! It pays me to use Lux for all these things—they wear so much longer—and my hands look lovelier after washing them before!" Try Mrs. Ware's recipe: Use Lux for your linens, upholstery, fine towels, all colored things... as well as for your dishes, rompers and washings.

"Depends entirely in my bedroom—crownings for the children's room—lovely rayon braids in the living room—green checked plaid in the kitchen... I wouldn't think of trusting my pretty curtains (or my hands) to anything but Lux," Mrs. Ware says.

LUX soothes and tends your hands while you work—

The SANDMAN STORY

PETER GNOME AT PARTIES

THE people in Fairyland were always very much interested in hearing what the children were doing, of their games and their frolics, and Peter GNOME often used to go to children's parties and watch them at play.

It really wasn't rude of him for he put on his invisible robe so no one could see him and he wasn't in the way at all.

He had a beautiful time early one morning watching two children playing the telephone game.

They each had a little toy telephone and they played that they were tele-

Had Watched Scampering Wild Rabbits and Flocks of Wild Geese, phoning people just as they had heard their mothers talk.

"Hello," said one, "please give me 145 Party J." And the other answered:

"Yes, this is 145 Party J. Did you wish to speak to me?"

"Oh, yes, my dear, how are you this morning? Well, I had the loveliest time yesterday afternoon. I called you up to tell you all about it."

Next he saw two children sitting in a big box and the big box was in a still bigger puddle and they were playing that they were on a boat.

"Another little girl was playing 'house' with her friend and she was saying:

"Dear Mr. Ice-man, why didn't you leave ice for me today? Do you know how where I can get any?"

And the other girl who was supposed to be the ice-man answered in a gruff voice:

"Go to the North pole and you'll find some, lady."

Some other children were starting out with their dolls for a trip and they were saying to their little dolls:

"We have to pay to ride on the cars, but you are young enough to travel free."

Then Peter went to a zoo where most of the people about spoke another language, for he went a long, long way this time. But the animals still greeted and squealed and chattered in their own way to Peter's great relief.

Coming back he sailed on an old schooner and had a most adventure-some time.

He sang to himself at times and this was one of the songs he sang:

The ocean and the sky
Add our last, glowing steadily on
While trees and land and streets
Are quite completely gone.

It was quite true, too, that they had left trees and streets in the far distance now for quite a while.

He listened to the sea gulls saying the same things over and over and he thought how much they were like some people who said the same things over and over.

But they were so graceful and so beautiful and they always made the scenery more interesting. Then he liked to hear their funny laughing voices and he thought their good appetites showed how healthy they were.

He certainly would tell them in Fairyland, how he could see, when he looked from the top of the mast, only where the sky and sea met all around. There was a blue ridge in the distance and beyond he couldn't see.

He thought of all the curious things he had seen on this trip—the donkey and dog wagons and how much they had to work. But then, too, he had been in one little place and every day the dogs had all met together on the beach and had gone in swimming and had played and had a beautiful time.

It had seemed just as if they had named an hour to meet on the beach.

He had seen woolly white sheep lying on stones, on rocky hills, and he had watched scampering wild rabbits and great flocks of wild birds.

He had made friends with a dear little dog as they had warmed themselves before a fire when every one was out and the little dog had felt so blissful lying on his back by the warm fire and having Peter GNOME rub his chest.

Oh, Peter had made many a visit and had seen many a quaint and interesting sight at home and far away, but the best thing of all was always, he thought, to go back home again!

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"DEVIL-MAY-CARE"

"O H, THE devil may care!" This is a phrase which we sometimes hear used as an expression of indifference, or applied to a person who takes things not very seriously or intensely, who does not worry and cannot be ruffled, who is irresponsible and "easy going."

It was as descriptive of a certain person that the expression had its origin. Its contribution to modern speech is part of the great legacy left to posterity by Charles Dickens. In his well-known "Pickwick Papers" we find the quotation in which the term was first used, as follows:

"He was a mighty free and easy, loving devil-may-care sort of person, was my uncle."

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

VERVAIN

ABOUT all that seems to have survived in this country of the once high esteem in which vervain was held in magic and folk-medicine is its reputation as a cure for fever and ague—a reputation which the doctors say is entirely undeserved. But let science say what it may, superstition still calls vervain "favor-weed" and this is little enough as salvage from its once great estate of magical properties.

In former times the vervain was highly esteemed as a love philter and is so today in some sections of Europe. At a German wedding a wreath of vervain is presented to the bride and is supposed to aid her in holding the affections for her husband. In England the herb is thought to be efficacious in staunching a wound, and in France, if gathered in the waning of the moon it is as much regarded for its curative properties as it is in the "fever and ague" districts of the United States. But the French employ an incantation while gathering it which is not done in America. That is the reason, perhaps, why in France it cures not only fever but various other sicknesses.

In the days when witches were more common than they are now, vervain was one of the herbs which they gathered to work their magic with; but also it was regarded as a charm against witchcraft as it is today in some sections of Europe, including rural England. All the superstitions regarding vervain are an inheritance from the days of the Druids with whom it was a sacred plant, and if it has lost a portion of its magical reputation today it is probably due to the fact that we have forgotten how to gather it properly. The Druids gathered it only "when the dew-star arose from unsummed places."

Habits of Wild Beasts

Beasts are gregarious, that is, their tendency is to herd, and as a rule they graze with the wind, presumably from the same instinct that impels them to face away from a storm. Some believe that in their wild state they depend on wind-carried scent to warn them of danger from the rear and trust their eyes for news of danger coming against the wind.

UNKNOWN ISLANDS IN PACIFIC OCEAN

Area Near Equator Not Adequately Charted

Washington.—Even though modern mapmakers have charted almost every scrap of land on the earth, whether large or small, there may still be some uncharted islands in the vast stretches of the Pacific. Successors to Defoe, wishing to write of an unknown island upon which their hero is shipwrecked, might still do so without fear of contradiction if they placed it in the Pacific ocean, slightly south of the equator and about 100 miles south of the Caroline Islands. This region is to the north of New Guinea; it is out of the way of steamer tracks and has never been adequately charted.

But, on the whole, Robinson Crusoe would have a difficult time today trying to find an unknown desert island to get wrecked upon. In his time, a little more than 200 years ago, the Pacific ocean was dotted with thousands of unknown, uncharted islands, both verdure-clad and barren.

Recalls Selkirk's Isle.

The profusion of these oceanic oases, especially in the equatorial region, and the fact that they were not placed on any sailing charts, made it an easy matter to pick out a nice, lonely island as remote from the world of men as a corner lot on Mars. Alexander Selkirk, the original Robinson Crusoe, lived on the island of Juan Fernandez, 360 miles west of Valparaiso, for three years without seeing another human being.

The story of the discovery and charting of the Pacific's islands is a fascinating tale, replete with romance and studded with the names of many doughty adventurers. Islands have been discovered, lost, and in some cases rediscovered. The Solomon Islands, for instance, were lost for two centuries and then found again. Most interesting, however, are those phantom isles, sighted once or twice by mariners of sailing ships and then never seen again. A great deal of this island hide-and-seek was due to uncertain methods of determining latitude and longitude at sea. The rest was due to the sighting of floating patches of marine life which, at a distance, looked like islands, to submarine earthquake and volcanic action which might push a mass above the surface of the water temporarily, and to the ever-active imaginations of deep-water sailors.

Thousands of Islands Reported.

Fifty years ago, more than a thousand tiny phantom isles were reported to freckle the Pacific's 70,000,000 square miles. The United States Hydrographic office, at that time, published a "list of reported dangers in the Pacific ocean." The list, in three volumes, contained over 3,000 reported shoals, reefs, and islands, most of them with the notation, "existence doubtful" or "position doubtful." To day, the majority of these reported dangers, especially the islands, have definitely "disappeared." So have sea serpents and the other chimeras which once did the adrenalin act to adventurous sailors' hearts.

Although possible, it is improbable that other islands may be discovered in the vastness of the Pacific wilderness of waves.

Heir to Millions Loses

Job; Overlays Leave

Milwaukee, Wis.—Even the rich are subject to disciplinary action when they overstay their vacations.

Proof of this is offered by William Woods Plankinton, Jr., twenty-one, who last year took a $20 a week job in New York, after falling heir to a fortune of millions.

The youthful scion of the packing company finally is here today looking for a job.

"I got fired for taking too long a vacation in Europe recently," Mr. Plankinton explained. "My boss was J. C. Stewart, a building engineer, who incidentally is also my maternal grandfather."

Mr. Plankinton's quest for work is carried on in company with his friend, Frank Lee, of San Francisco. As a diversion the young men take moving pictures of their travels.

Gems His Playthings

Many, varied, and strange are the belongings kept in safe deposits. During the recent visit to England of the ruler of a semi-independent Indian state a score or more of gorgeously appraised retainers visited the premises of one company every day to collect three heavy chests filled with cut and uncut precious stones. These were taken away for the dusky potentate to play with, and returned to the vaults when he tired of his daily amusement. The jewels were said to be worth over $100,000,000 and were probably the most valuable collection ever stored at one time.

Vernoy Unable To Furnish Bail

Jack Vernoy, colored, proprietor of the Blue Bird Inn on Murray street, that yielded a quantity of alleged liquor Monday, when prohibition agents conducted a raid there, now occupies a cell, as Vernoy terms it, a "room" in the Ulster county jail. He is awaiting extradition to a Federal jail because he cannot furnish $5,000 bail demanded this morning when he was arraigned here before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly.

Vernoy, who boasts of being in the rolls of the Federal prohibition law for the third time, paid a visit to the sheriff's office this morning and informed Sheriff Arthur Rice that he wished him to reserve a "room" for him at the jail. He told the sheriff that he was on his way to the U. S. commissioner's office and that he had no intention of endeavoring to raise bail, thus the request for a place at 1818 Wall street.

It is said he refused the services of counsel, remarking that his experience with the prohibition laws has put him in a position to take care of himself.

Name "Peony" Traced to Legend of Mythology. In the days of the Greek gods and goddesses, the peony first came to the world's attention. Leto, Apollo's mother, was the one to introduce it. Apollo was known as the god of healing and his son, Asclepius, was the god of medicine.

It seems that a pupil of Asclepius named Paeon was the physician of the gods, and to him Leto first gave the plant which he employed to cure Pluto of a wound received at the hands of Hercules during the Trojan war.

The fact that his pupil could surpass him in effecting such a cure made Asclepius angry, with the result he attempted to kill Paeon, but Pluto, indebted to Paeon for his own life, rescued the physician of Mount Olympus from death by changing him into the plant that had saved his life. Until this day that plant bears Paeon's name and is known to us as the peony.

The history of the peony in China and Japan is of a sentimental nature. Fittingly enough, the words "Sho To," meaning "Most Beautiful," were applied to the herbaceous peony, while the tree peony held away as the "King of Flowers"—Kansas City Star.

Only Dame Nature Can Freshen Mind and Body. "The earth is the great reservoir of physical forces, and whilst so scientist has not been able to discover how intimate or how perfect is the connection between the mental and the physical, there exists, no doubt, a correlation between the processes by which the body and the soul are kept healthy and vigorous by drafts on the great reserves of nature."

"One grows tired of books and cloyed with all manner of art. Then comes a hunger and a thirst for nature. Real thought gathering is like berry gathering—one must go to the wild vines for the racy-flavored fruit. Art and nature are really the antipodes of each other—one is original, the other second hand. When we go from the library or the studio to the woods or fields, we go to get back what art has robbed us of—the freshness of nature. The suggestions of nature come out of the mysterious, invisible generator; but art merely reflects its suggestions back upon nature."—Maurice Thompson.

Near the Center. There are two men whose ways we cannot fathom; you, there are three we do not understand. The first of the twins is the man who has two wives at the same time. The other is the clerk or accountant who steals from his employers and covers the theft by falsifying his books. The third, he is the man who holds his hand on the edge of a volcano that erupts every year or so.

All three are alike in that they know something is going to blow up under them. Peace of mind has been called the common denominator; it is the one thing they have put out of their reach. Of the three we think the man on the volcano's margin has the most sense. After 2,000 years, there is a chance that he can build again somewhere else.—Clarence Thompson-Star.

Woman's Bookishness. Newspaper headlines are filled with stories of men and women who went down to defeat in the face of adversity. Ministers at Rondout Church

The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, is away on his annual vacation during the month of August, and during his absence from the city the church pulpit is being supplied by out of town ministers. For many years the church has made its preaching services during the vacation season an attractive feature and this year is no exception. Last Sunday the Rev. Ebenezer Plack of Kingston, Pa., was the preacher, and he delivered an able sermon. It was the fourth time that he had preached in the church here. Next Sunday the pulpit will be filled by the Rev. George Walker of Margaretville. This will be a return visit by Dr. Walker, he having preached here last August.

On Sunday, August 18, the Rev. Dr. John A. Rodgers of New York, supervisor of a department of national missions, will preach and on Sunday, August 25, the Rev. Charles M. Moser of Pine Plains will deliver the sermon.

A chorus choir with Miss Virginia Loskamp as director and contralto soloist, assisted by Mrs. Glendinning as soprano soloist, and Mrs. Harry G. Smith at the organ, will be heard at all of the services during August.

Mrs. May Fenton Barnum, wife of Dr. F. L. Barnum, who practiced in Kingston approximately 10 years ago, died at her home in Philadelphia on Saturday, August 3. Interment was made in Wiltwyck cemetery this city, Monday.

Ruth Frederica Mayer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mayer, died this morning at the home of her parents, 62 Brewster street, after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be held at the home of her parents, Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Interment in Montrose cemetery.

Mrs. Emilie A. Tetzlaff, who suffered a fracture of her right hip last Thursday morning, died at her home on upper Market street, Saugerties, early Tuesday morning in her 85th year. Mrs. Tetzlaff was one of the oldest residents of that village and highly respected. She was also one of the oldest members of the Atonement Lutheran Church. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Emma Martin, Mrs. Amelia Ballman and Mrs. Henrietta Tetzlaff; two sons, Herman and Edward Tetzlaff. The funeral services will be held at her late home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The funeral of William C. Kukuk, well known local undertaker, who died on Saturday last, following an operation for intestinal trouble, was held from the late home, 167 Tremper avenue, Tuesday afternoon, and although private, the cortege was quite large. Monday evening the members of Rondout Lodge, No. 242, F. and A. M., of which deceased was a member, visited the house and conducted the impressive Masonic funeral service. The room in which the body reposed was a bower of beautiful floral tributes from sorrowing relatives and friends, undertakers and the different fraternal organizations with which Mr. Kukuk was affiliated. Six council members of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer acted as casket bearers. During the funeral service at the home Miss Mildred Mesinger and Herman La Tour very feelingly rendered "Abide With Me" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The pastor, the Rev. O. E. Brandorf, in eulogizing Mr. Kukuk, spoke of the high standard of integrity which he had set for himself and which he had practiced during life and that his loss would be keenly felt not by the family alone, but by the city in general. Interment was made in the family plot in Montrose cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Brandorf accompanied the cortege and conducting the committal service at the grave.

RUTH HITS 28th HOME. RUN WITH BASES FULL. Philadelphia, Aug. 7 (A).—Babe Ruth hit his 28th home run of the season today in the second inning of the first game with the Philadelphia Athletics. Ruth hit the home run with the bases full, scoring Combs, Robertson, and Gehrig ahead of him. Ebanke was on the mound for the Athletics.

Throat Trouble Laid to Too Much Sugar. Atlantic City.—Dr. Charles W. Robinson, of Washington, president of the American Laryngological association, said in his address at the recent thirty-first annual congress of the association, that the eating of too much sugar was directly responsible for throat and voice disorders among children and young adults in the United States.

"With Americans consuming sugar at the rate of 100 pounds per capita annually, which amounts to better than a third of a sugar daily," said Dr. Robinson, "many diseases of the throat and voice can be traced directly to that cause."

Huge Sunspot Bases Forecast For August Magnetic Storms

New York (A).—The sun may give the earth both a treat and some annoyance in mid-August. For the Mt. Wilson observatory predicts possible magnetic storms, caused by a newly discovered sunspot 33,000 miles long and 20,000 wide. The sun's rotation will bring this vast dark area squarely facing the earth August 14.

Magnetic storms occasionally are accompanied by flashing displays of the northern lights. Their interference with human affairs seems confined to stopping telegraphy, hampering radio and causing slight disorders in other scientific instruments.

These disturbances are ascribed to a concentration of the sun's rays acting like a dynamo to generate extra electricity in the upper air. Part of this concentration is believed to be ultra-violet light, the invisible rays which make tan and cure rickets.

The storms demonstrate the splendid belt of armor which earth's atmosphere furnishes its inhabitants against celestial disturbance. The volume of ultra-violet light pouring from sun spots is apparently so violent that it is accredited, in a theory published recently by United States naval observatory scientists with breaking up the tails of comets.

The earth's protection against too much of these rays is believed by many scientists to be one or more bands of ozone in the upper atmosphere. Ozone is a special form of oxygen, slightly blue, which can be produced in laboratories by an electrical discharge.

Some scientists hold that the ozone bands are caused by ultra-violet rays. Others doubt this, and a world-wide comparative study of ozone is under way.

Four-Year-Old Tries Bribery

Boston, Aug. 7 (AP).—Vincent Farley, four-year-old Roxbury scrobbler, no other when it comes to attempting bribery. Vincent was going good to the common last night. His hands and somersaults so nearly approached the virtuosity of his vaudeville performers that a good-sized crowd got generous and was coming in freely.

But just at the high spot of the entertainment trouble arrived in the person of Agnes Callahan, policeman from headquarters, who thought Vincent ought to be home in bed.

Persuasions being unavailing, Vincent sought to forestall the inevitable by a master stroke. He reached into his pocket and brought forth the guins of his efforts, pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and finally a half dollar. "All right," he said, resigning the shiny 50 cent piece, "take the big one."

Miss Callahan took it, but she also took the rest of the collection and Vincent himself, along to the La Grange street station where a short time later the aspiring scrobbler was being led home by an anxious mother, who had sought him in vain all day.

P.S.—He kept the "gate."

Thinks He Has Special Reason for Complaint

The driver of a small car, parked in a crowded downtown section, stopped short and stared at the apparent nakedness of the machine. The spare tire was missing.

With a nonchalant shrug, he muttered something about "thieves will be thieves" and began to climb into the machine. But he stopped short again and stooped to pick up a wrench from the running board. His face grew crimson, and the things he said were terms not generally employed by frequenters of social teas.

"What's the trouble?" asked the stroller.

"A lot!" he snapped. "I don't mind these crooks stealing my tire, but when they open my car and take my tools to do it with, that's too much!"

Protect Guano Birds

Shipmasters carelessly blowing their whistles, disturbing the guano birds nesting on the islands off the coast of Peru, are punished with a fine; and if it is discovered that their vessels approached within two miles of the islands, their boats are confiscated!

This new law was passed by the Peruvian government in a drastic campaign to protect the birds, which, as described in Popular Science Monthly, produce large quantities of guano, an excellent fertilizer. While guano is found in various places, the most valuable variety—containing from 15 to 25 per cent nitrogen and a like proportion of phosphoric acid—is exported from the Chincha and other islands near the Peruvian coast. These islands produce $1,000,000 worth of the fertilizer a year.

Health leaders the country over laud Dr. Luntz's remarkable new Flaxolyn formula.

Dr. Harris H. Luntz, Philadelphia physician who won his own amazing fight for health—today releases the new pleasant Flaxolyn liquid formula, for which thousands of stomach, liver and intestinal sufferers have been waiting. It is absolutely guaranteed in writing that Flaxolyn will help all cases of general exhaustion, biliousness, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, dizzy spells, when due to constipation gasses—or the Whelan druggists refund the purchase price.

The new Flaxolyn is the crowning achievement of Dr. Luntz's life. It is the result of over 25 years' research work as a specialist in botanical medicine. Over two million men and women who have already used Dr. Luntz's Flaxolyn powders can testify how much Flaxolyn has helped them. The NEW Flaxolyn easier to take and improved in every respect, working quickly upon various organs of the body, whips them into more healthful action—it is exactly what health-seekers have been searching for TO MAKE THEIR WORK EASIER AND LIFE MORE ENJOYABLE.

Dr. Luntz's Own Case

As a practicing physician in Philadelphia, Dr. Luntz devoted his heart and soul to his profession. He acquired an enviable reputation and soon there were such demands upon his time that his own health began to fail. He went from bad to worse as constant day and night calls to bed-sides of the sick, drained his reserve energy and sapped his strength. Before long his own brother physicians issued a fatal warning—a warning which might come to any man or woman who fails to treat the human body with highest respect.

No case could be much worse than Dr. Luntz's own was. Yet he fought for health and WON. Today, at fifty-five years of age, he looks and feels almost as young as his sons. Inspired by a Providence which helped him in his own victorious struggle for health, Dr. Luntz has been tireless in his efforts to perfect the Greater Flaxolyn for those who need it. Flaxolyn is the one medicine Dr. Luntz himself takes regularly to keep himself in the pink of condition. When he recommends it, he does so with complete faith in its merits.

GENEROUS GUARANTEE

Every reader of this paper who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better, and look better, can obtain a bottle of the wonderful new Flaxolyn on this liberal offer: that if Flaxolyn does not bring satisfactory results by the sixth spoonful, you may bring back the partly used bottle to Whelan and have the full purchase price refunded!

Flaxolyn contains nothing that can hurt you, and it may prove to be the means of bringing joy to your existence.

Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, a new and better grip on life.

Sleep Without Harmful Drugs Says Former Battle Creek Sanitarium Physician, Dr. Herr

Thousands of people who formerly suffered nights of restless sleep and days of agonizing stomach distress, can now feel fit, eat with keen appetite and sleep serenely by taking the natural and pleasant-tasting formula Flaxolyn, perfected by Dr. Harris H. Luntz.

According to a statement issued by Dr. A. W. Herr of Cleveland, formerly physician at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, "Flaxolyn relieves in a natural way that dreaded condition called constipation. In many cases where auto-intoxication prevented sleep, the use of Flaxolyn has been the means of so cleansing the colon that natural sleep is now the usual thing and life has taken on a different meaning for these people."

HEALTH ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

Dr. Benedict Lust, President, American Naturopathic Association and head of the Butler (N. J.) Sanitarium, writes Dr. Luntz, as follows: "Flaxolyn is priceless in all digestive ills. I consider it a most modern and natural adjunct, and find it a great help in assisting the process of elimination of irritants from the system."

The chemist's report to the Whelan Drug Co. shows that the Flaxolyn formula contains:

California Bark
Bile Salts
Baked Flaxseed
Belgian Valerian
African Buchu Leaves
Chinese Rhubarb
Burdock's Aloes
Dandelion Roots
Jamaica Ginger Roots
Spanish Licorice
and other valuable extracts, too numerous to mention.

Your grandmother was, no doubt, familiar with many of the old-fashioned herbs in the Flaxolyn formula; others of the ingredients are rare, and known principally by pharmaceutical chemists.

Dr. W. H. Morse of Hartford, Conn., has written: "Flaxolyn eliminates the toxins from the system, stimulates the functions of the organs and puts one right with Nature."

Hundreds of other doctors and health sanitariums all over the world have used Flaxolyn and have sung its praises. Dr. Mabel Wesson, Harlan, Iowa: "I think Flaxolyn is splendid." Drs. Forster and Teter of the Davenport, Wash. Sanitarium: "Flaxolyn is unusually serviceable and effective as an invigorating tonic and for normal bowel action." Dr. S. E. Sutherland, Jemland, Maine: "I have seen Flaxolyn do wonders—its formula is O. K."

DOCTOR SAYS THOUSANDS ARE SELF-POISONED —and Do Not Know It—

Dr. Oscar E. Lee, of Olympia, Washington, and head of the Sanitarium Health Baths, says: "Thousands of people are suffering from complications due to self-poisoning from continual constipation. Flaxolyn can help these people immensely by preventing such self-poisoning."

RADIANT CHARM RETURNS; THANKS DR. LUNTZ'S FLAXOLYN

Ethlyn Gibson, former Ziegfeld "Follies" beauty and featured star in the "Winnie Winkle" screen comedies, suffered a complete breakdown in health. Flaxolyn helped her recovery and she writes this unsolicited letter to Dr. Luntz:

"Dear Doctor: I know you will be interested to learn how much good Flaxolyn has done for me. For the past few years I suffered with nervousness, headaches and a general exhaustion that made me restless at night. My appetite had left and I was subject to bilious attacks."

"I was getting disgusted with life when Flaxolyn was recommended. I took it and have gained in strength, my stomach is in excellent shape, nervousness gone, and I feel great all around. My appearance has greatly improved. My skin is clearer, eyes brighter. Words are not sufficient to tell you how happy I am for Flaxolyn."

HOLLYWOOD AND MIAMI

The fact that in Los Angeles and Hollywood, Cal., in Tampa and Miami, Florida, and other places where fashion, social and financial leaders gather is Battle Creek, Mich.; Asheville, N. C.; Lakewood, N. J., and other health resort centers, thousands upon thousands of packages of Flaxolyn have already been purchased and results praised, should convince you that this remarkable discovery is worthy of an immediate trial.

London Health Centre Sends Praise For Amazing Flaxolyn Health Discovery

From London, England, comes the message that all over the British Empire, packages of Flaxolyn are being delivered to men and women who have used it with wonderful benefit.

Edgar J. Saxon, the noted head of the London Health Centre, in sending congratulations to Dr. Luntz, American discoverer of Flaxolyn, states that never in all his years of health work has he found a formula as effective and efficient as Flaxolyn.

This statement is especially interesting, following upon that of Dr. N. F. Meelen of the Swedish Institute, who remarks that "Flaxolyn is equalled BY NO OTHER PREPARATION IN THE WORLD. I have used it in the treatment of any number of different cases, with continuously good results."

SHARPENS THE APPETITE

A statement issued today by leading druggists, says: "If there are times when you feel so 'washed out' that nothing seems right, Flaxolyn may be just the thing for you. It is not a cure-all. It helps the body help itself. It sharpens the appetite, stimulates the flow of vital digestive juices to draw out more nourishment from the food you eat. It activates bile from the liver that has become lazy, and clears out the intestines, removing putrid decay matter that might be encrusted there. Cleaner, richer blood naturally results, and pimples, blemishes, bad breath, headaches and other signs of toxic constipation poisons can rarely exist."

Dr. Frank Baker, of the Foster Health Home, states: "I have been using Flaxolyn quite extensively in my practice, especially for the purpose of cleansing and purifying the intestinal tract, and have found it very satisfactory indeed."

Dr. George Crandall, of the Cranford Health School, York, Pa., says: "Our institution is unique in that we teach people the greatest thing in life—How to Live. Throughout our work, we advocate the use of Flaxolyn."

SAVED HIS HEALTH

Says Minister of Flaxolyn.

No case is more interesting than that of Dr. Middlekauff, above, who was formerly a minister of the gospel, but is now a minister of health.

Dr. Middlekauff writes: "Flaxolyn saved my stomach and my health, after I suffered for over 15 years. Now that I am a Naturopathic doctor, I want you to send me $10 worth of Flaxolyn so I can help my patients."

Flaxolyn is powerful, yet it is as safe as the food you eat.

West Shore Nine Start Early and Defeat Hercules

The West Shore Railroaders advanced one more step toward a tie for first place in the second round of the Industrial League Tuesday evening when they triumphed over the Hercules by a score of 7-3 at the Athletic Field.

Rallies in the early innings enabled the Railroaders to win. They got to "Chick" Maurer, Hercules' starting pitcher, for seven hits and seven runs, and had the game sewed up before he was taken out of the box.

"Bing" Van Eiten replaced Maurer and had not started it might have been a different story. He let the Railroaders down with four hits and kept them away from home plate the four innings he pitched.

Johnny Carpenter was the winning pitcher. He was very good in the pinches. Eight hits were made off his delivery, which he kept well scattered except for the sixth inning when the Powdermen bunched three hits for two runs.

Hitting honors were quite evenly divided with Lay and Dullin polling the longest hits, each getting a triple. Van Eiten, Williams and Verticles connected for two-baggers.

Verticles, the first Railroaders to bat, greeted Maurer with a two-bagger to right field. Charlie Lay followed with a triple to the same place and Verticles scored. A foul error by Hertica on McGraw's fly ball allowed Lay to score. An infield out and Williams' single sent McGraw home. Williams going all the way to third on the play to catch McGraw at the plate. He scored on an infield out.

The Hercules registered one in their half of the first inning. Hertica singled and was forced out at second on Peterson's grounder. Peterson stole second and scored when Niles' fly got away from Williams in left field.

A walk to Snyder and hits by Williams and Clark, coupled with an infield out, gave the Railroaders three more tallies in the third inning. The Hercules' best inning was the sixth, registering twice on hits by Van Eiten, Krum and Hotelling.

SIDEKICKS

If the Railroaders defeat the Polos in their last game it will cause a tie with the Gascons and a play-off game will be necessary to decide the winner.

A gray suede jacket, belonging to Harold Johnson, Polos' third baseman, was lost at Monday evening's game. He would be pleased to hear from the finder.

It looked as though Lay held Krum's fly ball long enough for a put-out in the second inning. But umpire Cragan called him out, and that's official.

McGraw Advocates Eyeglasses

THEME was a time—not so many years ago, either—when a fellow wearing spectacles was considered virtually disqualified from participation in sports, particularly professional activities. Now we find no less an authority and leader than John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, advocating eyeglasses for major league baseball players.

True, this change in official attitude is as startling as it is great, says Sam Reis, sports editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Yet why shouldn't an athlete use specs if his sight is improved thereby? Why isn't it reasonable to suppose that some of our stars might align with even greater brightness when defects in vision are corrected through the employment of glasses? It sounds logical, to say the least.

Fear of possible injury undoubtedly has been the principal objection to spectacles. In the case of baseball players, however, there is another reason for dodging adoption of "cheaters." To most of the boys earning their living on the diamond, wearing of glasses would be considered an admission of falling sight and if there is one thing in the whole world they do not want their employers to think it is that they are cutting their baseball usefulness. They sooner would take a chance on not hitting quite as well without the aid of optical decorations.

That seems foggy to some, but obviously no player is willing to take such a gamble unless forced to it by nature. Some major league players have found the move necessary, the latest being Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is very prompt in testifying that a baseball now looks much larger to him than ever before. He never has had much difficulty seeing it before, judging by his batting records. Nevertheless, he has joined the ranks of the few in risking loss of prestige with the magnifying.

Come to think of it, spectacles are becoming less of a curiosity in sports each year. Really there is no great reason why they should not be worn in any branch of athletic endeavor not calling for bodily contact. Football and basketball come under the contact classification, but even in those two sports glasses are not wholly unknown, special leather and steel guards being used to prevent breakage.

Large numbers of golfers wear glasses on the links just as they do on the street and they seem to be handicapped in no way unless it is by the inconvenience of wiping off drops of rain or perspiration, which bother is more than offset by the minimizing of the glare of the sun's rays. Tennis players, too, retain their specs while on the court and appear to find them an asset rather than a liability. Many handball and squash addicts likewise keep on their glasses while indulging in their pet pastime.

As nearly as we can figure, about the only sports in which spectacles would be entirely impossible are boxing and wrestling. Protective devices could not even be used in those innocent ring frolics, as such guards would unfairly handicap an opponent. As for "four eyes" in baseball and other sports, though, why not?

John McGraw.

Petrone and Matinsky Won

Dominick Petrone, flashy New York featherweight, took the decision from Billy Humphries of England in the feature 10-round bout at Woodcliff Park stadium Tuesday night. The attraction topped a card well punctuated with action and was one of the best scraps ever seen in the Hudson valley.

Petrone gave everything he had to Humphries in the opening round. The Englishman took it without flinching and came back in the rounds that followed up until the fifth or sixth with an attack that had Dominick fighting very cautiously.

In the seventh the New Yorker resumed his lightning attack and at one time in the round had Humphries in a bad way. Billy weathered the storm however and made Petrone work the limit. Although Petrone missed considerable with his famous uppercut wallop, he hit Humphries with enough punches to send a less tougher man to defeat by the knock-out route.

Dominick, one of the most popular of New York city's Italian contributions to the ring, was awarded the decision amid an outburst of cheers that proved he made a big hit with Woodcliff Park fight customers.

Jack Wilson of New York took the measure of Joe Sakun. Brooklyn welterweight in the semi-final, which was a very interesting contest in every one of the 10 rounds that it lasted. Salina, the boring type with plenty of endurance forced the scrapping and had the better of the argument for the first four rounds. He caught plenty in the sessions that followed after Wilson solved his attack and straightened him repeatedly with right uppercuts.

Murray Fuchs of New York was knocked out by Emil Rossi after two minutes and 35 seconds of fighting in the first round.

Harry Matinsky, who fought a draw with Nick Zinna at the Kingston Fair Grounds last Friday, was awarded the decision over Eddie Holmes in the six rounder that opened the show. The judges' taste in picking the winner did not suit the fans, who cheered Holmes as he left the arena. Many were of the opinion that it should have been a draw.

Next Tuesday the Woodcliff Park bouts will be broadcast, round by round, over radio station WOKO of Mt. Beacon.

Singer Taken Off Fair Grounds Card

Herman Singer will not meet Tommy Gervel Friday night at the Kingston Fair Grounds in one of the two star 10-round bouts, it was announced this morning by Bill Singer, local boxing promoter, who said that his namesake received a severe cut on his lip while boxing Al "Rube" Goldberg Monday night at the Starlight arena in New York.

Singer, who lost to Goldberg, has been replaced on Friday's card by Frankie Marchese of New York, who fought a draw with Johnny Huber at the Starlight club Monday evening. The Marchese-Gervel fight should be a real thrilling encounter as both boys are rated as very good in pugilistic circles.

The other star bout will be a slugfest between Benny Brostoff and Teddy Siedman of California. Local fans know the calibre of Brostoff, who fought a draw with Charlie Von Reeden several weeks ago, and expect a real fast go.

Two six rounders and a four make up the remainder of the card. Tickets for the show are now on sale at Singer's Service Station on the Strand.

LINEUP FOR WIGHTMAN CUP TENNIS MATCHES

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—The line-up for the Wightman cup tennis matches at Forest Hills Friday and Saturday, so far as it has been determined, presents the unique spectacle of a series between California and Great Britain. With one doubles team still to be selected, the American squad is composed entirely of California girls.

Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, America's first and second ranking women players, were selected some time ago to play the leading roles in the singles. Yesterday Edith Cross of San Francisco was added to the list. She will pair with Miss Wills in the doubles.

The two Helens each will play two singles matches, while Miss Cross will take care of the fifth solo encounter in the series of seven.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

Spied by the prayers of a million Chicago fans, the Cubs are on the march today seeking a final conquest of the east. In two swings along the Atlantic seaboard this year the Bruises have won sixteen games and lost nine. A continuation of that pace through the sixteen engagements of the impending invasion would send the young men of Joseph McCarthy back to the west late this month all but assured of the pennant.

Despite a 5 to 4 defeat by Brooklyn at Wrigley Field yesterday, the Bruises are eastward bound with their lead of seven and one-half games intact. The Pirates also lost—to the Giants by 5 to 3—and must face the clan McGraw in another game today.

Chicago burned with baseball enthusiasm yesterday as it had at no other time since the dim and distant days of Tinker and Evers and Chance. Wave after wave of pennant-hungry fans swept through turn-styles, filled vast stands and poured out upon the field. For the first time in the history of William Wrigley's enlarged plant, amazed club officials had to slam the gates shut at a mid-week game, with 55,000 yelling mad men (and mad women) inside and perhaps 25,000 more milling about in the streets outside.

Even with the loss of the farewell home game, the Cubs quit Wrigley Field with a record of fourteen victories and only two defeats in their stand against the east. Their grand total for the season against the east to date is forty-one victories and sixteen defeats.

Bill Walker performed upon the mound against the Pirates and pulled out of a mean hole in the ninth to preserve the slender lead. Giant hits and Pittsburgh errors had given him the eighth. With the bases filled by the singles and two men out, he forced Pie Traynor to roll weakly to the infield for the final out. Walker also received spotty support, only one of the three Pirate runs being earned.

Jess Petty went the route for the Buccaneers, and permitted the Giants to bunch their hits where they would do the greatest damage. Paul Waner, who has been in a batting and fielding slump, was benched to give him a chance to rest up a bit.

Rain interfered with the Cardinal-Braves game at St. Louis and the Phils and the Reds were not scheduled.

While Chicago was cheering its Cubs, American League contenders were, in effect, marking time. The Athletics bowed to the Browns by 8 to 3 in the first game of a double header, but came back strong to win the second game by 11 to 3 behind Eddie Hommel's knuckle ball, which was working. The Senators trimmed the Yanks by 13 to 9 in the opener, but Freddy Heimach pitched a three-hit shut-out in the nightcap, winning for the champions by 8 to 0.

Costly Rookie Is of Big Family

In the little Ozark community where "Chip" Cissell, the White Sox rookie shortstop, received his first lessons in baseball, it is a tradition that there "never was a Cissell who couldn't play baseball if he tried."

Perryville, Mo., his old home town, still points with pride to a team of 25 years ago composed of all Cissells. On the team was the father of "Chip."

However, it was not until 1908 that this group made the name of Cissell feared wherever baseball was played in southeast Missouri and southern Illinois.

With the 1908 team was Tesreau, the big Ozark bear hunter, who later became the ace of John McGraw's hurling staff. Max played first base and was considered a dangerous hitter and a star at his position, but he refused steadfastly to join the professional ranks.

Sam Cissell, "Chip's" uncle, held down an outfield berth. Another uncle, Den Cissell, a giant in stature, covered second and was a terrific hitter. The story is told that once Den connected with such force that his bat broke, the free end flying over second base.

The most sensational of the Cissells, however, was Fred, the "occasional marvel." Fred played short without a glove and was feared at the bat because of his timely Texas leaguers.

These four Cissells were the stars of the family. With Tesreau the group constituted one of the strongest semipro ball teams ever assembled in southwest Missouri.

BASEBALL NOTES

No major league pitcher made more than one balk last season.

The world series twice has been decided in four straight games—in 1914 and 1918.

Ed Walsh holds the strikeout record for a world series game, killing off 12 in 1906.

Ohio had 14,000 boys competing in the American Legion baseball tournament this year.

Grant Gillis, second baseman, has been released by the Boston Red Sox on option to Columbus.

A pop bottle thrown at a Toronto player hit Doll Derr in the Reading park. The unpopular player was Joe Rabbit.

Vernie (Tubby) Clemens, the former St. Louis Cardinal catcher, is performing in Chicago semipro circles this season.

Burling Grimes' first defeat of the year was marked by an off day in the field for the Pirates. They made seven errors.

Mrs. Babe Ruth calls her husband "George," which puts her one up on everybody else. Nobody has been found who calls him "Herman."

Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington team of the American league, will impose a fine of $500 on any of his players who play golf.

It is probable that the Portland (Ore.) Pacific Coast league team, will play its games in the near future at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club stadium.

Fred Merkle, one-time New York Giant and Chicago club first sacker, and author of the famous "bone head play," has a residence near Daytona Beach, Fla.

Shortstop Johnny White has been sent to the Des Moines club of the Western league under an optional agreement. Officials of the Columbus Senators announce.

Although the Athletics' roster gives Jack Quinn's age as forty-one, this veteran pitcher played on a soldiers' team in Tampa during the Spanish war, and that was 31 years ago.

With Outfielder Dan Taylor, obtained from the Cubs, Reading has placed him in center to relieve Rabbit Whitman, who is moved over to right field. Joe Kelly has been benched.

Little Rock and Nashville (Southern) claim a record for men left on bases in a game recently, 25 being left stranded. Nashville deserted 13 prospective scorers and Little Rock 12.

Lee Meadows, veteran pitcher who was sent to the Indianapolis club of the American association under option several weeks ago, has been given his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh National league club.

The spit ball didn't slow up Red Faber, Jack Quinn, Clarence Mitchell and Burling Grimes, for they're still using it, 10 years after the major leagues decided it must go. They were exempted because they already were using it.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (AP)—C. C. Pyle, New York-Los Angeles race promoter, has been granted a week's respite from wage claims employees in the boxing derby when four times within a week landed him in jail.

City Prosecutor Lloyd Nix has Pyle until August 12 to pay $15,000 to Cleo Balcom and her orchestra and Paul Mickman, leader of a troupe of actors, or make good on his promise to find employment in the films at least for the stranded girls.

The promoter said he had paid thousands of dollars to runners and employees in the derby, and would make good all claims if allowed time enough. He protested, however, it did not have "a thin dime."

French Speed Plane Crashes.

Bordeaux, France, Aug. 7 (AP)—France's attempt to gain a victory in the impending Schneider cup races at Calshot, England, has ended in tragedy. Lieutenant Florent Bonnet, 35, was killed yesterday afternoon when the airplane in which he was training for the speed test crashed in leaving the air field here. The commander of the Naval Station at Hourtin, where Bonnet was stationed, said he was stupefied.

PROFIT IS SEEN IN SWAMP LAND

Propagation of Fish Will Yield Dividends, Says U. S. Bureau.

Washington.—Many a farmer has wondered how he could make a bit of profit on swamp land, pond or tiny lake yield some financial return. He strives to render it useful for agricultural purposes by drainage—frequently with very little success. Yet the propagation of fish on farms in artificially constructed ponds or in natural ponds of limited area is perfectly feasible, and with proper management such ponds will afford a convenient and economical food supply that will justify the expense of their construction or preparation and maintenance. A recent publication of the United States bureau of fisheries. This report describes the essential features to be considered in the location of a site, the construction of the pond and its operation and the kinds of fish to use such as the basses, sunfish, crappie and catfish.

Brood Fish Need Shelter.

"As with all forms of live stock, it is essential that brood fish be kept in a thrifty condition. Good food, proper shelter, ventilation and exercise—familiar requirements to the farmer—have their equivalents in the food, physical characteristics of the pond, composition and aeration of the water, and the amount of space allotted to a given number of fish." To obtain a maximum production the fish farmer will find it desirable to fertilize the pond each season. This will increase its productivity from two to tenfold. The fertilizer should be applied at intervals of two or three weeks during the spring and early summer.

In rearing bass it is desirable to introduce minnows as forage fish for the cannibalistically inclined bass to feed upon instead of preying on their less fortunate brothers and sisters. "These minnows feed largely on algae and small organisms that are not ordinarily eaten by bass, and consequently make available a food resource that is largely lost if no forage fish are present," the report states.

Black Bass Cannibalistic.

While it is difficult to estimate the capacity of ponds, a two-acre pond has produced 10,000 one-year-old black bass from four to six inches long and 20,000 one-and-one-half to two-inch yearling crappie or sunfish per acre. During the second year, through cannibalism, one may expect the bass stock to be reduced at least 50 per cent. In succeeding years, although the adult bass may consume most of the new year's hatch, enough should escape to maintain the maximum productivity of the pond.

The farmer may usually find a market for his surplus fingerlings for stocking other waters. Fingerling bass generally sell at $20 per thousand and upward.

Soviet Station Guard Lynched by Angry Mob

Podolsk, U. S. S. R.—An infuriated mob at the railroad station Grivays near here recently lynched a station guard just after he had fired at and killed a passenger.

The passenger was turned over to the station guard for riding without a ticket, but attempted to escape. In the course of a short chase, the guard, Turkia, fired and killed him.

A crowd of several hundred witnessed the shooting. Some one raised the cry, "Kill the murderer!" The efforts of several policemen to ward off the crowd failed. Turkia was dragged from the station office, where he had taken refuge and was brutally beaten to death.

Four alleged leaders of the lynchers are under arrest charged with homicide. The press in recounting the tragedy warns that the Soviet government will not tolerate any such mob justice.

Planes Equipped for Business in Flight

St. Louis.—The Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft corporation here has produced a cabin plane equipped with desk, dictaphone, filing equipment, book shelves and all the fittings of an office. The cabin is sound-insulated against the roar of the engine.

A system has been perfected whereby the user of the plane may read his business letters into the dictaphone and drop the dictaphone record to the ground by small parachutes, to be mailed. Three of the planes will be built each month.

Metals That Defy Rust

Copper is a metal that cannot rust. In its pure form it is ductile and easily shaped. When rigidity and strength are required copper is alloyed with zinc to make brass, which is harder and resists rust equally well.

AUGUST the Sardonyx

Augustus, great and good emperor of Rome, has had this month, which brings good fortune to all, named for him. Its birth-stone, the sardonyx, is an emblem of true wedded love.

Fittingly enough, the rings for those born in this month are named for the first pair of true lovers, Adam and Eve.
